Dear parents, carers and families,

I have attached a number of documents to today's letter which I hope you will find useful and interesting! As well as the National Online Safety poster, I have attached information about a photo competition that your child might want to take part in. I know lots of you have been recording images over the past year during the various lockdowns and it would be great if we had a winner amongst us!

The termly dates for the next academic year have been released by Cumbria County Council and these are also attached. Please be aware that our school is scheduled to be re-wired and have a complete lighting upgrade during the summer holidays. I am already working hard to secure start and finish dates that will not impact on the children and their learning but I do not have the confirmed project dates yet...I will of course update you on this nearer the time!

We would really like your support with the annual National Book Tokens competition. Once again, parents are asked to nominate schools they think would benefit from £5000 of book tokens – we think we would! Please follow the link and nominate our school – the more nominations, the better the chance we have of winning!

Finally, a reminder that next week is 'International Week' here at George Romney. We are having to modify the way we normally celebrate our project but we are determined to give the children a great learning experience, this year linked closely to their topics of Greece and Ethiopia...

Take care, stay safe,

DR
